Amdocs Completes Acquisition of Vubiquity to Further Expand into Media & Entertainment Business

Purchase positions the company at the center of increased convergence across the content ecosystem and video distributors; New Amdocs Media Division Formed

ST. LOUIS — Feb. 22, 2018 — Amdocs (NASDAQ: DOX), a leading provider of software and services to communications and media companies, today announced it has completed the acquisition of Vubiquity, a leading provider of premium digital content services and technology solutions. This acquisition adds premium content capabilities, including licensing, processing and delivery, for the benefit of customers and end users worldwide, positioning the company at the center of increased convergence across the content community and video distributors including major over-the-top (OTT) providers.

“We are delighted to welcome Vubiquity and its customers to Amdocs and look forward to working together to deliver solutions as the media market continues to evolve at a rapid pace,” said Anthony Goonetilleke, Group President for Amdocs Technology. “With this acquisition, Amdocs stands ready to enable communication service providers and content producers to quickly expand and improve entertainment offerings to grow revenues while gaining increased consumer insights from content consumption.”

Consistent with guidance provided on January 30, 2018, the impact of the acquisition on Amdocs’ diluted non-GAAP earnings per share is expected to be neutral in fiscal year 2018, and accretive thereafter. The impact on diluted GAAP EPS will not be known until after Amdocs completes the purchase price allocation. Amdocs expects to incur acquisition-related expenses related to operating adjustments, restructuring charges and other acquisition-related costs. Further information relating to the financial impact of this acquisition for fiscal 2018 will be provided on Amdocs’ Q2 of FY18 earnings conference call on May 10, 2018 at 5:00 p.m. Eastern Time.
